General Hiring Criteria
 The application process for Hogan Lovells' Summer program is very competitive, and we select our participants each year from among many highly qualified candidates. We are able to offer positions only to those applicants whose records demonstrate outstanding performance. Although we apply no formulas in our selection process, superior academic credentials, particularly with respect to law school grades and class rank, and excellent written and oral communication skills, are required. We also look for other indicators of likely success at Hogan Lovells, such as demonstrated leadership skill, strong motivation, good judgment, the ability to work well with others, and an interest in community involvement.

Organization Narrative

A world of opportunities in your backyard

Change is happening faster than ever, and to stay ahead, we need to anticipate what's next. We work together to solve the toughest legal issues in major industries and commercial centers around the world. Our 2,500 lawyers on six continents provide practical legal solutions for corporations, financial institutions, and governments.

What does this mean for you? At Hogan Lovells, you become part of a team that understands client issues, solves problems, builds relationships, and works together. You can expect challenging work, world-class training, inclusive teams, and a strong commitment to the community.

Collegiality is not just a goal – it's how we operate every day. We're known for strong associate-partner relationships and early client contact. That means you'll have a chance to learn and grow while making a meaningful contribution to our collective success. We recruit smart, well-rounded candidates who want to maximize their professional potential and who share our commitment to client service. Our unique global platform, pre-eminent practices, and one-team approach to serving our clients offer students and new lawyers a great foundation on which to build their legal careers.

HOGAN LOVELLS US LLP - WASHINGTON, DC OFFICE

With deep roots extending back more than a century, Washington is our largest U.S. office with approximately 500 lawyers. Working at the intersection of business and government, our lawyers help clients navigate an increasingly complex legal and regulatory landscape. We represent clients before the federal courts, executive branch departments and agencies, and the U.S. Congress, and our lawyers are regularly recognized as preeminent in their fields. We practice under the umbrella of five main practice areas – Corporate, Finance, Litigation, Government Regulatory and Intellectual Property – and our pioneering pro bono practice that we founded more than 40 years ago.

Our clients are a who's who of local, national, and international companies and related trade associations spanning the aerospace, automotive, defense, energy, finance, infrastructure and transportation, insurance, life sciences, real estate, and technology industries. We understand the business of those industries and the importance of practical legal advice for getting the job done. Our collaborative and industry-based approach ensures our clients get the right advice in the right context to address business and legal concerns alike.

SUMMER ASSOCIATE PROGRAM

Hogan Lovells summer associates participate in meaningful projects, educational programs, citizenship and social activities designed to develop their legal skills, teach them about our firm, and expose them to our diverse practice areas and lawyers.

Assignments

With the advice and guidance of associates who serve as mentors, summer associates select projects from a "pool" of substantive assignment requests from lawyers in our corporate, finance, litigation, intellectual property and regulatory practices, as well as our pro bono practice. Students are encouraged to choose projects from a variety of practice areas in order to gain broad experience and work with a diverse group of lawyers. Practice groups also offer summer associates opportunities to undertake "mini-rotations" for greater exposure to practice groups of particular interest to them. During a mini-rotation, summer associates work exclusively with one practice area for a designated period to develop a deeper understanding of the work and the clients, attend practice meetings, and get to know the lawyers.

Professional Development and Training

Hogan Lovells provides summer associates with extensive practical learning opportunities, including working closely with partners and associates on client assignments and participating in a variety of training programs and simulation exercises designed to facilitate the transition from studying law to practicing it. Students participate in skills development courses in our litigation, corporate and regulatory groups, attend closings, depositions, and legislative and administrative hearings, and meet with firm alumni and clients serving in prominent roles in government and business. Summer associates enjoy both partner and associate mentors and benefit from the guidance of the many lawyers who involve themselves in our summer program.

Annual US Summer Associate Conference

US summer associates attend a conference in Washington, D.C. with their colleagues from all of our US offices. At the conference, firm leaders share insights about the firm's vision and values, commitment to diversity, leading practices, management, firm finance, and strategic plans for the future. Partners speak with attendees about their career paths and why they love what they do. Summer associates get to know their colleagues from US offices through small group dinners and fun team-building exercises.

ASSOCIATE INFORMATION

Washington Office Practice Rotation Program

New associates in the Washington, D.C. office have the opportunity to rotate through our practice groups, including the pro bono practice, during their first year with Hogan Lovells. Practice group assignments are made based on preferences expressed by incoming associates and an assessment of the firm's needs.

Hogan Lovells Lawyer Development Framework

While much of our lawyers' training and professional development occurs as a natural part of their day-to-day work, Hogan Lovells recognizes that formal training and focused development programs are critical to the professional growth of our lawyers. The quality of our legal training is reflected in the fact that so many Hogan Lovells lawyers are recognized as distinguished in their fields. The Hogan Lovells Lawyer Development Framework includes 13 skills that are important throughout the career of an associate and was developed to guide associate training and professional development. Coaching and mentoring supplement the training to enable associates to manage their individual development. Our HL Learn team conducts programs covering substantive areas of law, core legal and business development skills, practice management, ethics and professionalism and other topics. New associates from US offices participate in an annual week-long training program, known as Launch, which is designed to assist with their successful transition from law student or judicial clerk to associate. When associates join the firm, they are assigned to a development circle for one year with peers and a senior associate. The goal is to set them up for success from their first year with the firm. Hogan Lovells has also implemented a formal Associate Professional Development Program intended to help associates think strategically about their career goals and to identify concrete steps they can take to achieve those goals with the help and advice of a partner or counsel mentor.
